Courageous man does not allow his disability to get him down and generates own income

Francis Jim is an amazing physically disabled person who does not allow his disability to control his life. Despite his disability, he travels long distances in his wheelchair daily, selling sweets to make a living. He sells sweets on the corner of Du Toit and Skinner streets in the city centre to generate enough money to pay for his rent and buy food. He suffers from cerebral palsy that led him to be wheelchair bound. He is a courageous man who prefers to mobilise his wheelchair on his own rather than to be assisted by someone else. During the day, from Monday to Friday, he collects a plate of soup from PopUp's soup kitchen.
