

Work power!

Students at the People Upliftment Programme in Salvokop cannot hide their excitement at the donation of products to provide them with the necessary business skills to become skilled workers.

Daily Sun : Friday 8 March 2013

By SIMONE HERADIEN

STAFF at the People Upliftment Programme, a skills training centre for the unemployed in Salvokop, Tshwane, recently received a whole range of products to help train their students.

Samsung Electronics handed out some 150 products including television sets, home theatre systems, DVD players, ovens, dishwashers, fridges, computers, notebooks and vacuum cleaners.

The donation was aimed at supporting the project's three training centres in Soshanguve, Mmakau in Ga-Rankuwa and Salvokop so they can teach their trainees the necessary business skills to re-enter their communities as skilled workers and make a difference.

"These products are an important way in which we can provide the organisation with the means to empower people in Tshwane," said Samsung's Michelle Potgieter. "It forms part of our commitment to stimulate the development of employable skills in people from disadvantaged communities."